“ Justin was the kind of co-worker that made everyday a good one. Absolutely one of the most genuine and kind people I've ever met. He will be missed.

“ I met Justin through Disaster Response in Lake Charles, La after hurricane Laura. He was a man with a huge heart for people. I watched him in action ministering to people in his loving way. Justin was so fun to be around. Felt almost instantly like he was my little brother! He had a definite heart for God and love for His people. My prayers are with this family. Godspeed, buddy. Much love, Laura Landers

“ My son plays soccer with John-Andrew and Justin was the loudest parent on the sideline. He was so proud of his son, and you could tell his son loved his dad. Every pass he made, every kick, every goal, he looked over to see if his dad was proud. They embraced each other after the game Saturday and Justin said “You did so good buddy! I’m proud of you”. It now breaks my heart because when they left the game, John-Andrew went with his mother and Justin hugged him again and said “See you later buddy!”. They had a special bond and you could tell. John-Andrew was very blessed to have a father who cared so much.

“ Justin was a true friend to me, always taking my call when I needed him. I remember last week he shared a story of John Andrew's soccer game. He was so proud of John Andrew and his skills and his drive. He talked about how he was so hype for John Andrew he was screaming encouragements and praise that another parent and the coaches were actually asking him to scale it back some, lol. In that same conversation we talked about he loved sitting on the porch and talking with Lorianna. He told me how they were two very different kids, but he was so blessed to have such incredible kids. He had parts of his past that he said he would never go back to, and his number one reason was to be a great dad to his kids. He was a role model for me on how to make my kids a priority, how he structured his life and time around his kids.
