“ Sister Blasingame and family,

Another soldier is gone. The Lord blessed so many of us by allowing us to learn from Bro. Blasingame.

He was such an encouragement to me during the time I knew him in Blytheville. We are ever grateful his words of wisdom on our wedding day, 44 years ago.

We understand your loss and will continue to pray for comfort for your family.

In Him,

“ My sister and I used to call Lowell 'Uncle Lowell' even though there was no relation. I remember ending each Sunday morning service with a hug from 'Uncle Lowell'. That was almost 20 years ago, but anytime I got to see him when he visited AR, it was always still the same. He was such a precious, genuine man. The world should be filled with others like him. He will be greatly missed and his life remembered so fondly.

“ I don't remember not knowing Lowell Blasingame. What a wonderful person. Growing up, there were several like him, who always stayed with my family when they were conducting gospel meetings. Lowell, Leonard Tyler, Billy Moore, Leon Goff, Walton Weaver, A.W. Goff, Ed Dye, ... the preachers of my childhood. Several are gone now, including my Dad. Lowell read a poem at mom's funeral, "The touch of the master's hand." Beautiful poem. Wonderful man. RIP dear Lowell. RIP.

God bless you all.

“ Our loss is indeed heaven's gain. It was my good fortune to know brother Lowell while he worked with the South 46th Street congregation in Fort Smith, Ar. He and Geneva were good friends of my Mother. I appreciated his work in the kingdom as a great Bible expositor, his love for the truth, and his love for the saints. May God be with his family and may we meet again and live eternally together.
