“ My baby brother, we fought, but let someone else start picking on on of us and we were at each others defense. We had a strong and unshakable bond that could never be broken. I love you and we will be silly together again. I will see you and we can worship together. I love you, sister.

“ I'll never forget the time you went with us to Moundville for Easter. We played Hide-n-go seek between all the mounds. It was at night on top of that and the game lasted until the next morning. Between games we would goof off and tell stories. It was a great night and one that I have never forgotten.
RIP Jeremy
